KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

PITTSBURG, KANSAS

STUDENT HANDBOOK

1948-1949

REES H. HUGHES, President

Main entrance to campus, on Broadway,
Kansas State Teachers College, Pittsburg, Kansas.

FOREWORD

This book is addressed to all the students of the Pittsburg Kansas State Teachers College.

Its purpose is to:

(1) Provide, in compact form, information about the College and its program of work and activity.

(2) Encourage all students to become working cooperative members of the College body.

(3) Develop appreciation of the cultural forces of the College and the larger community in which it is located and of which it is an integral part.

REES H. HUGHES
President

GREETINGS

TO OUR STUDENTS, NEW AND OLD, OF KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, PITTSBURG

The Kansas State Teachers College in Pittsburg is an institution for higher learning which is dear to the hearts of thousands of alumni and former students. Because of the experiences which they have had here, and since we believe there are opportunities here for your educational growth, for happy associations, and for personal achievement, we welcome you as members of the student body, whether you come now for the first time, or whether you return to renew your associations here.

Your college life holds a two-fold responsibility. The first responsibility is toward yourself. Plan your college program carefully. Study to enlarge your storehouse of useful information, select judiciously from the large offering of well planned courses, participate in the extensive extracurricular program, and take advantage of the opportunity to add many to your list of friends. These are offered you during your college attendance here.

The second responsibility is for your college. We are located in an important industrial area and in a splendid city. You will find here a beautiful campus provided with splendid buildings, and adequate equipment, and a spirit that characterizes a great college. The administration, the faculty, the student body, and the people of the community are friendly and cooperative. I bid you all to join us in perpetuating these distinctive traits.

In becoming a member of the Kansas State Teachers College in Pittsburg we believe you have signified that you want to have a part in its development, as well as your own. In accepting it as yours, you, also, assume a responsibility for its welfare.

We wish you adventure, happiness, and success in your college life.

REES H. HUGHES, President.

HISTORY AND TRADITIONS

HISTORY OF THE KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

In the very beginning of the twentieth century, a man had a dream and saw a vision. The dream was of educational opportunities for any and all types of children and youth. The vision was of our college as we have it today. The dreamer and doer, the man who had the vision, was R. S. Russ, the founder of the school. A hard legislative battle was won when, on February 26, 1903, the following entry was made in the statute books of the state of Kansas: "Section 1. That there be, and hereby is established, at Pittsburg, Kan., an auxiliary manual training school."

As the manual arts had been entirely neglected not only in the school system of Kansas but in most of the systems all over the United States, this school had for its main objective the training of teachers for wood and metal work, and home economics. The school at that time was auxiliary to the Normal School at Emporia. It opened its doors in a small ward school building of the city of Pittsburg, September 3, 1903, with a faculty of five and a student body of 43. Its friends were few and its total appropriation was but $18,000 to meet all expenses for the first two years.

The 43 years of existence of this college is a thrilling story of the wisdom of the founder and the leadership of those in charge of its policies and purposes. Its progress and popularity have been marvelous. The enrollment for the first year was 143, which grew to 5,364 by 1925-1926. This was reduced by the depression and later by World War II, but it is now on its way to greater numbers than ever.

In 1913, the college became independent and its name was changed from the Auxiliary Manual Training School to The Kansas State Manual Training Normal School. Dr. W. A. Brandenburg was chosen as its first president, and served until his death, October 29, 1940. In 1923, in recognition of advancement in academic standards, the name of the institution was again changed, to the Kansas State Teachers College of Pittsburg. In 1941, Rees H. Hughes was appointed president. He has struggled efficiently with the many problems arising out of World war II, and with notable success.

The school was at first housed in one of the city buildings at 5th and Pine streets, which is now known as the Central Grade School. In 1908, the College moved into its first real home which is the Russ Hall of today. After a destructive fire occurring June 29, 1914, Russ Hall was rebuilt in 1915. Industrial Arts building was erected in 1913, and other buildings were placed on the campus at frequent intervals until we have it as it is today.

The curriculum was broadened until the function of the College is not only to prepare teachers for every field of instruction but also to give students an opportunity to obtain a general college education. A glance at the present catalogue will show the many curricula and opportunities for study.

During its short history, it has issued 21,895 teaching credentials ranging from a one-year certificate to the master's degree. Its graduates are teaching in every State in the Union and in most of the countries in the world.

Its educational standing has been recognized by the leading educational accrediting agencies of the United States.

The College has been active in all important educational movements, local, state, and national. President Brandenburg, at his death, was president of the American Association of Teachers Colleges; Dr. Jane M. Carroll was president of the Kansas State Teachers Association, 1945-1946; and Professor E. E. Stonecipher was elected president of the department of rural education of the National Education Association in 1945 and reelected in 1946. Dr. Carroll and Professor Stonecipher are both alumni of the institution. President Hughes is a representative of the United States on UNESCO, as well as a member of the executive board of the Kansas State organization of UNESCO. He has served in many important positions, both state and national, in the field of education, and civic organizations.

Five hundred twenty-two alumni and students served in World War I, and the College gave rehabilitation training to 557 veterans of that war. Two thousand five hundred and fifty-two alumni and students served in World War II, and the College is still further aiding in the training of veterans assigned to its campus. At present approximately 1,300 are enrolled.

The alumni of the College are scattered over practically every part of the world and are engaged in all types of constructive work.

TRADITIONS OF KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

Our college, even if it is still young, has acquired some valuable and outstanding traditions. As traditions are vital in creating lasting impressions of the College, and as they are the essence of school spirit and loyalty, it is very important that each student, in order to get the most out of college life, should have some knowledge and understanding of the habits and customs that have grown into traditions on our campus.

The ideals of the founder of the College, R. S. Russ, have formed the basis for the tradition which outweighs all other traditions, both in validity and popularity: The tradition that the College at all times shall encourage, foster, and maintain a democratic, friendly spirit; that it shall always be the policy of the institution never to tolerate anything that would not conserve and promote democracy of relationships; that nothing except worthiness, regardless of financial or social status, is necessary for recognition and standing with the institution or faculty.

These ideals have been carefully guarded since the founding of the school. Principal Russ formulated them; Principal Myers, during his two years of service, made a significant contribution; and the first president, William A. Brandenburg, in his long years of service, held to them, strengthened them, and emphasized them as the years passed. President Hughes and the present faculty are just as effectively conserving these traditions, the first of which is that of a friendly and democratic spirit and attitude.

A tradition that is almost as old as the College itself is the "Apple Treat" which occurs on the day celebrated as Founders Day. This is celebrated not only on the campus but in all places where several alumni are able to get together. At this time school history is reviewed, the apple story told or dramatized, and the faculty pass out apples.

Homecoming day which usually is held about the middle of October is another of the prized customs of the College. At this time all organizations of the College which maintain residence houses compete in a contest in house decoration. The organizations keep open house for returning alumni. There are various other get-together functions with a football game and a banquet.

Each fall at the regional meetings of the State Teachers Association the alumni of the College get together for dinner meetings to receive first-hand news of the College and to renew old friendships and exchange greetings.

The graduating class of 1906 started the custom of the outgoing class leaving a memorial to the school. They presented the Winged Victory, Nike, with the idea that each class would give a piece of statuary, thus making a museum collection. The class of 1907 followed with Apollo, and that of 1908 with Minerva. The classes then decided that each class should chose the type of gift to be presented, but each class has given a memorial. The gift of the class of 1941 was the portrait of President Brandenburg, painted by William Bowen, an alumnus of the College. It hangs at the head of the marble stairs. Other class gifts have been the lights in the library; the front entrance to the college campus; and contributions toward the Student Union Building.

Another custom that has gained much headway is that of each year having a Silver Reunion Dinner for alumni on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation.

A custom that is very impressive is that of the graduating classes and faculty in academic regalia, on convocation day, marching around the oval to the strains of the KSTC march as it is played by the band located in the center of the oval.

A beautiful pageant has recently been added to the campus activities. On one evening during the Christmas season faculty and students again march around the oval carrying candles and singing carols.

SOME INFORMATION ABOUT CLASS WORK

Selection of A Curriculum

A student enrolling in college as a freshman should give serious consideration to the selection of a curriculum. Kansas State Teachers College at Pittsburg grants the A.B., the B.S., and the B.S. in Education degrees as well as a number of designated degrees in fine arts, mechanic arts, and business. If a student is somewhat undecided, it is wise to enroll as a non-major and take general education for the first year. While enrolled as a non-major every opportunity should be taken to learn as much about different objectives as possible. Another good thing to do is to take interest and aptitude tests in the Vocational Guidance Bureau. Usually by the time one becomes a sophomore, he is able to select his major and minor fields wisely. Every freshman is assigned to a faculty advisor when he enters college and this person stands ready to help him with his enrollment as well as other problems throughout his first year.

Change of Enrollment

A student, at the time he enrolls, should plan his program with great care. However, it often appears advisable after enrollment time to make changes in one's program of studies. The change from one course to another should be made within the first week after enrollment. This change from one course to another should be started by going to one's major advisor and securing a change of enrollment card. The student must take this change of enrollment card to the Registrar's Office when it is completed, else the change will not be made on the records.

A course may be dropped any time during the first six weeks after enrollment, but after the beginning of the seventh week a student can discontinue a course only by withdrawing from it and taking a grade of "Wd.P." or "Wd.F", depending upon whether he is passing or failing at the time of withdrawal. To drop or withdraw from a course the student first goes to his major advisor for a withdrawal card and then takes it to the Dean of Instruction for approval. This card must also be taken to the Registrar's Office by the student as the last step in the procedure.

Withdrawal from College

If it becomes necessary for one to withdraw from college before the end of the semester or summer session, the first place to go is to the office of the Dean of Instruction where arrangements can be made for an official withdrawal from college. If a student quits without making this withdrawal, he gets failing grades on his work at the end of the semester. If it is impossible to see the Dean of Instruction before leaving college, as in the case of serious illness, at the earliest opportunity a request should be sent back to the Dean of Instruction for withdrawal from college.

Grading System

Our college uses the letter system of grading, A, B, C, D, and F. A grade of A gives three grade points for each semester hour, B gives two grade points, and C one grade point per semester hour. D gives semester hours of credit but no grade points, while F gives neither credit hours or grade points.

At the end of the first nine weeks of each semester the Dean of Instruction secures reports of low grades from the faculty. Any student making "D" or "F" at midsemester is informed of the fact and urged to confer with his counselor with the view of taking measures to improve his work.

Absence from Classes

Each instructor keeps account of attendance in his classes and grants excused or unexcused absences. Any student who accumulates unexcused absences in excess of the number of credit hours in the course is dropped from the class rolls and may not return to that class unless reinstated by the Dean of Instruction. For this reason, a student who finds it necessary to be absent should inform the instructor so that his absence will be excused.

All these regulations are intended to be a help and benefit to the student. It will be greatly to his interest to observe them carefully.

YOUR ACTIVITY PROGRAM

The Kansas State Teachers College is committed to the idea that a college education is not confined to the classroom, that everything that happens to students, both inside and outside the classroom, contributes in one way or another to his education. Therefore, an attempt has been made to systematize and organize these extra-classroom activities so that KSTC students will derive maximum value from them. In this section are listed some of the organizations and activities that are open to students for their benefit and pleasure. The activities program is under the direction of Dr. Paul G. Murphy, Dean of Administration.

Student Council

The Student Council is the student governing body. It is composed of thirteen members, including a president chosen by ballot from the student body at large, four class presidents, one additional representative from each class, as well as the vocational students, and three representatives at large.

The Student Council was organized in 1919. Since its organization, it has been given many additional responsibilities. At present, the Student Council has charge of All-School Parties, Student Forum Meetings, School Elections, and Special Assembly Programs. The student members of many committees are appointed by the Council, and it has numerous other duties which aid students and faculty alike.

Honorary Societies

In most of the societies listed here, membership is by election only, and those eligible for election must rank high in scholarship, leadership, and professional spirit. Details regarding the purposes of each and the qualifications for membership are to be found in your copy of the general catalogue.

Departmental Organizations

Many of the clubs listed below have no specific membership requirements other than regular attendance and active interest in the work for which the club exists. These clubs afford opportunities for students to make better social and cultural growth, through wider acquaintance with members of the faculty and other students in their chosen fields than is afforded in the regular classroom. Departmental heads will gladly discuss the aims of these clubs and inform you of any membership restrictions.

College Publications

The Collegio

The Collegio is the official student newspaper of the College. It is issued each Wednesday during the regular college year and the summer session. The reporters and editors are selected from the journalism classes, for which it serves as an effective laboratory, and its printers and pressmen are students in the printing classes of the College. The purpose of the publication is to give a faithful and complete record of College activities, and consequently it holds much interest for all students and alumni. The Collegio is sent to the libraries of all Kansas high schools.

The College Lake

The Kanza

The Kanza is the College yearbook. It is issued at the close of each spring session, and is a book of 160 or more pages artistically arranged and printed in colors. The yearbook portrays College activities. The staff is chosen by the publications committee from students who have special qualifications for the work.

Student Directory

The Student Directory is compiled each fall by the YMCA and sold to students at a nominal price. In addition to the name, address, classification, and telephone number of every student in school, it also indicates where quality merchandise of various sorts can be obtained in Pittsburg.

The Educational Leader

The Educational Leader is published by the faculty of the College, semiannually in November and March. Each issue is the product of four departments and reflects the academic and professional activities being carried on by the respective staffs. Besides the articles, there are columns devoted to specific mention of faculty, alumni, and outstanding activities of the College, both on the campus and in the field.

The Gleaner

The Gleaner is published in October, December, February, and April by the Bureau of Rural Education. Its purpose is to glean from the field of rural education the worthwhile things that are being done and to publish contributions from workers in the field. It is mailed free to all county superintendents, rural, consolidated, and village administrators of the state and, on request to teachers, board members, and patrons.

The Alumnian

The Alumnian is a magazine published in the interest of the alumni. It is issued twice a year, spring and autumn, and is mailed free to Degree graduates who are members of the Alumni Association, and to holders of 60-hour life certificates who have affiliated with the Alumni Association as associate members.

Your Activity Ticket

The activities program is financed for the most part by the activity tickets which are purchased by both students and faculty. It doesn't take much figuring to realize that the activity ticket is one of the biggest bargains in entertainment culture and education available anywhere. Some of the things it buys are:

Admission to all sports and athletic events sponsored by the College.

Admission to all College-sponsored entertainments—lectures, plays, opera, and other musicals.

Admission to the All-School dances and parties.

Admission to debates and oratorical events.

Subscription to THE COLLEGIO during the time you are a student at KSTC.

A copy of THE KANZA, the College Yearbook.

Some of the things in which the activity ticket helps are:

To bring outstanding speakers to the Campus.

To support the Student Council, the YWCA, and the YMCA.

THE CAMPUS

BUILDINGS

Russ Hall

Russ Hall is the administration building. It is the oldest and largest building on the campus. A four-story structure, it was erected in 1907-1908 and rebuilt after a serious fire in 1914. Besides the administration offices it houses the departments of Commerce, Language and Literature, Education and Psychology, Social Science, Mathematics, and also the Junior-Senior Training High Schools.

Science Hall

Science Hall, erected in 1918-1919, is a three story brick building, on the east side of the campus. It contains the auditorium with a seating capacity of 2,200, and the offices, recitation rooms, and laboratories of the departments of Biology, Chemistry, and Home Economics. The Student Health Center, the office of the school nurse, and two well-equipped social rooms are in this building.

Industrial Arts

The Industrial Arts building, erected in 1912, provides complete and commodious facilities for instruction in industrial, fine, and applied arts.

Mechanic Arts

The Mechanic Arts building, completed in 1927, is devoted, for the most part, to aeronautics and automobile mechanics, physics, and pre-engineering work. It is a fireproof building, well adapted to the use for which it was designed, located at the southeast corner of the campus. An addition which will greatly enlarge the floor space and add to the usefulness of the Mechanic Arts Building is now in the process of construction.

Athletic Field and Stadium

Brandenburg Field furnishes ample facilities for out-door athletics. It contains a well-graded football field, around which is a modern quarter-mile cinder track with a 220-yard straightaway

25 feet wide. Adjacent to the regular field are practice fields for football, soccer, tennis, hockey, baseball, and allied activities. At present these fields are in temporary use for veterans' housing units. On the east and west sides of the field are two modern reinforced concrete stands with a combined seating capacity of 8,000. The entire field is enclosed in a seven-foot brown-stone wall.

Music Hall

Music Hall is thought by many to be the most beautiful building on the campus in its interior finish. Its spacious lobby, compact auditorium, and many studios, classrooms, and soundproof practice rooms have served to enhance the place of music in the lives of students and the residents of the community.

Porter Library

Porter Library was erected in 1927 and named in honor of the late Senator E. F. Porter of Pittsburgh, who, as a legislator, was an active friend and supporter of the College interests in the matter of appropriations.

It houses the complete College Library, the Junior-Senior High-School Library, the Harry H. Hall Museum, the College Honor Roll of World War II, and a U. S. Branch Post Office.

Gymnasium

The Department of Health and Physical Education is housed in a well appointed two-story brick structure that provides a floor unit 96 x 146 feet. This is surrounded by a balcony and floor-seating arrangement that accommodates approximately 2,500 spectators. A folding partition separates the floor unit into separate practice areas for men and women. Offices for the staff are at opposite ends of the second floor. The lower floor houses a large swimming pool, showers, lockers, and classrooms.

Horace Mann Elementary School

The Horace Mann Elementary School, built in 1927, is located across the street, north of the campus. It is a modern building, fireproof and well lighted, arranged on the unit plan, with a group of rooms for each grade from kindergarten through the sixth. There are also several special rooms including auditorium, clinic, demonstration room, and library. It provides accommodations for 250 children and a large number of college students engaged in observation, participation, and supervised teaching.

JOPLIN AVE

Frances Willard Hall

Frances Willard Hall is a commodious four-story fireproof dormitory, fully equipped with parlors and rooming accommodations for 111 college women. The hall is across the street and south of the main campus.

The Cafeteria

The Cafeteria building, located on the oval near the southeast corner of the grounds, is equipped to serve 1,500 persons for three meals a day. The Annex is used also for social dancing and other gatherings.

Home Management House

The Home Management House, located south of the west Stadium, is an eight-room modern dwelling that serves as a laboratory for all Home Economics majors in the period of time that they live in the house and assume the responsibility of household management.

Christian Association Buildings

The YMCA building, located at 306 East Lindburg street, just south of the campus, provides recreational facilities and a meeting place for men students and members of the faculty.

The YWCA cottage, at 111½ East Williams street, one block north of the campus, provides a social center for all students, and a resident hostess in charge.

Mines Building

The Mines building is located in the center of the north side of the campus, and houses the Mine Rescue Board and the geological, meteorological, and mineralogical classrooms.

Heating Plant

The central heating plant, across Lindburg street, south of the Cafeteria, heats all the buildings on the campus. High-pressure steam is conveyed to each building through specially constructed tunnels. These tunnels also contain the cables for electric service and the intercommunicating telephone system.

Veterans' Housing

One of the latest additions to campus facilities is the veterans' housing units located north of the stadium. Erected through the joint cooperation of the federal government, College, and City of Pittsburg, they provide accommodations for families of 104 veterans of World War II. Seventy-one are reserved for the use of KSTC students, and 33 for other Pittsburg families.

A dormitory, one wing of which houses men and the other of which contains apartments for married couples, is also located near the housing units.

Temporary Classroom Building

The wooden structure facing Joplin street, located between the Mechanic Arts Building and Science Hall, houses shops, laboratories, and classrooms used in the vocational education program. Necessitated by the greatly expanded enrollments of the last year or two, this is a temporary building constructed of units moved to the campus from the Coffeyville, Kansas, Air Base.

Projected Buildings

Plans are being made for the erection of two new buildings on the campus as soon as circumstances permit. Four hundred fifty thousand dollars has been appropriated by the state legislature for the construction of a secondary school building, which will be located across the street north of the campus and west of the Horace Mann Laboratory School. The College High School, which is now housed on the first floor of Russ Hall, serves as a laboratory where students preparing to teach in the secondary school can observe and participate in the supervised teaching of high school students. Every effort is being made to design the new high school building so that it will incorporate the most up-to-date features and make possible the best instructional program.

Plans for a Student Union Building have been in the process of development for several years, and sufficient funds have been raised from student fees and contributions from the faculty and alumni to make a building possible in the near future. While a site has not been definitely selected, the most probable location is on the north side of the campus between Porter Library and the Gymnasium. The Union Building will provide a focal point for extracurricular activities on the campus, which are regarded as an important part of the educational program of KSTC. Among the facilities which will be housed here are lunch rooms, meetings rooms, dance hall, music room, book store, soda bar, game rooms, and possibly, a cafeteria.

INTERESTING SPOTS ON THE CAMPUS

College Entrance

The formal entrance to the College, on Broadway, adds to the general beauty of the campus. Wide steps lead from the street-level to a flagged terrace that is approximately 40 by 20 feet, and is flanked on either side by a low wall of stone and brick. Seats surrounding the walls make it a popular retreat or resting place. Additional steps lead on up to the wide front walk and the front doors of Russ hall.

The Campus and the Oval

The campus contains approximately 55 acres. Russ hall, which fronts Broadway, sits well back from the street. Other buildings are set close to the streets that border the campus thus forming a large rectangular open space in the center. A wide walk, called the "Oval," completely encircles this open area and connects all the instructional buildings including Porter library.

Inside the oval are lovely shade trees and inviting seats of Carthage stone. All the buildings have foundation plantings of ornamental evergreens; many shrubs make shady nooks; and there are large beds of blooming plants and flowers from early spring until late fall.

College Lake

The College lake is just east of Brandenburg field, and with its landscaped grounds is one of the campus beauty spots. It furnishes a setting suitable for quiet solitude, for companionable strolls along the "lake" shores, for bonfires, athletic rallies, and all-school picnics.

The Museum

The Museum of Natural Science and History occupies the entire third and fourth floors of Porter library. It contains interesting and valuable collections of zoological, botanical, and paleontological life; mineral and geological specimens; coin and currency collections; war collections; historical materials; exhibits of ethnological and anthropological cultures, and a fine arts gallery.

Astronomical Observatory

The College has an observatory on the roof of Russ hall in which is mounted a ten-inch, equatorial, refracting telescope of good optical and mechanical properties. This telescope is electrically driven and has several features which are usually found only on much larger instruments.

The observatory with its equipment is primarily for work in astronomy and related science courses, but frequent opportunities are given students and the public to use the telescope.

Art Room

The Art Gallery, located on the second floor of Music hall, contains a collection of paintings, etchings, and other works of art which have been presented to the institution by individuals, special groups, and the College Art Club.

William A. Brandenburg Portrait

A large oil portrait of the late President William A. Brandenburg hangs at the head of the marble stairs in Russ hall and is perpetually lighted. The portrait was a memorial gift by the Senior Class of 1941. It was painted by an art student and graduate of the College, William Bowen, Weir, Kan.

Honor Roll

The Honor Roll occupies the south wall space of the main lobby in Porter library. Here are recorded the names of the 2,552 students of KSTC who served in the armed forces during World War II. Seventy-seven of these are names of women, and 63 are of gold star members.

Trophy Cases

The plaques, cups, and other awards which fill the trophy cases to be found at the entrance to Porter library and on the second floor of the gymnasium bear ample testimony to the prowess of KSTC athletes in all sports. The names of many outstanding athletes of former years are to be found engraved on these trophies, which serve as an inspiration to each new generation of KSTC students.

AT YOUR SERVICE

In addition to the regular program of curricular and extracurricular activities, a variety of special services are offered to make your stay at the Kansas State Teachers College more enjoyable and more profitable. Most of these are available free of charge, so use them as much and as often as you wish.

Guidance Bureau. The Guidance Bureau, which is located in Room 119 on the first floor of Russ Hall, is designed to help you in the choice of a vocation. Many people come to college with their minds already made up as to what they want to do in life. Others find themselves in pretty much of a fog on this point. If you are one of the latter, drop into the Guidance Bureau and make an appointment to talk to one of the vocational counselors. You will find them a big help in deciding what line of work you ought to take up.

Personal Counseling. Almost everyone encounters personal problems in which he feels the need of help occasionally. Sometimes these are of a minor or temporary nature while others may be of long standing. Some are quite upsetting and others only mildly vexing. Large or small, simple or complex, though, they can reduce a person's mental and physical efficiency considerably, so the College has made provisions for students to obtain help in dealing with them.

Both the Counselor for Women, Room 203, Russ Hall, and the Counselor for Men, Room 209, Russ Hall, have had much experience in helping people with problems of this kind, and they are always glad to lend a sympathetic ear to students who want to discuss their problems with them. You may want to discuss such matters with your advisor first, and then talk it over further with these special counselors.

Financial Assistance. It costs money to go to college about which you can get information financial plans go awry. The college resources for aiding students financially are not large, but there are some funds available to students who are in need of assistance, both on a long and short term basis. Most of these funds are handled by the Dean of Administration and the Business Manager, and they can tell you whether you are eligible for loans from these sources or not. There are also some scholarships and prizes available to ease the financial strain of going to college about which you can get information from these same people.

Student Employment. Still another source of financial aid of which a great many students take advantage is part-time employment. A person ought to think a long time before he decides to try to finance any large share of his college education through part-time employment, for going to college is a full-time job in itself. Conferences with advisors and others can be helpful in making a decision on this point. The College maintains an Employment Bureau in Room 202, Russ Hall, to help students find part-time jobs while attending college. The College is also interested in helping its graduates find jobs after they have completed work for their degrees, and to this end has established a Placement Bureau located in Room 217, Russ Hall. It keeps a file of many different types of employment opportunities. While the majority of requests that come to the Placement Bureau are for teachers, information on many other types of openings is available through this agency. Mr. Hart, the director of the Bureau, is also in a position many times to make suggestions about summer jobs.

Bulletin-Boards. Keep yourself up to date about what is happening on the campus by watching the bulletin-boards which are found in all the buildings. Most of these are located near the entrances to the buildings, with the exception of the main bulletin-board, which is located at the north end of the hall on the second floor of Russ Hall. You will find it profitable to pay particular attention to the weekly calendar, copies of which appear in a conspicuous place on the front page of the COLLEGIO each week. If you want to place a notice on any bulletin-board, you will need to obtain approval first from the office of the Dean of Administration. The limited amount of bulletin board space makes it necessary to limit the size of posters to 14 by 18 inches.

Mail-Boxes. The student mail-box is located just outside the General Office at the south end of the second floor of Russ Hall. You are held responsible for notices directed to you through this mail-box, so it is a good idea to check at least once or twice a week to see if there is anything in it for you. Then, too, you never know when you will have an important letter telling you that your rich uncle has died and left you a million dollars!!

Assembly and Entertainment. One of the most interesting periods of the week comes at ten o'clock each Thursday morning when everyone meets in the College Auditorium for the weekly assembly period. Many different types of programs are presented during the year, and through them you will have an opportunity to get acquainted with the members of the college athletic teams, participate in pep session, see student as well as professional entertainers perform, hear outstanding speakers, and find out what's "cookin'" on the campus in general. The Convocations Committee, which is in charge of assemblies, is constantly on the lookout for student talent, so if you can sing, play an instrument, dance, act, or perform otherwise, don't keep your light hidden under a bushel. The weekly assembly period is one of the best places to meet other students, learn about life on the campus, and keep yourself informed about what is going on; so establish the assembly habit early. There may be an occasional program that isn't so hot, but you can never tell when there will be one that you will be sorry you missed.

Kansas State Teachers College students have the opportunity to attend many other good entertainment and educational programs during the year also. Just to mention a few that appeared on the campus last year, there were the National Repertory Players presenting Oscar Wilde's satirical comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest,"; Piatigorsky, world's greatest cellist; Kansas City Symphony; Draper and Adler, tap dancer and harmonica virtuoso; and Daniel Poling, great religious leader of Christian Endeavor fame. In addition to such talent as this, the Theta Alpha Phi players (campus dramatic organization) always present a couple of good plays each year, three or four good variety shows featuring student talent are produced by various student organizations, and the Music Department puts on a host of good programs. And this is not to mention the monthly all-school dances with a good band every time. As a matter of fact, Ted Weems played for the Kanza Ball last spring—need we say more? That activity ticket which finances all these things in addition to all athletic events so that they don't cost you an extra penny, is by all odds the biggest bargain in entertainment available anywhere.

Housing. It is just as important to have a roof over your head at college as it is any place else, and to help you find one that doesn't leak and that you like, the College maintains a Housing Bureau in Room 202, Russ Hall. Generally speaking, the "housing problem" that you have heard so much about is still a problem only for married couples and families at Kansas State Teachers College; however, the College has 71 housing units for veterans with families and 23 apartments for married couples without children, and these with the housing facilities that are available in town make it possible for almost everyone to find a place to live. Willard Hall, the women's dormitory, has space for 111 women, while the Men's Dormitory, which was put into operation just last year, will take care of 74 men. Applications for housing in the College units and apartments should be made to Mrs. DeFord, the director of the Housing Bureau; Mrs. Cockerill, housemother at Willard Hall, receives applications for rooms there; and Mrs. Gray, housemother at the Men's Dormitory, has charge of renting these rooms.

YWCA Book Exchange. New books and other school supplies are for sale at the bookstores located around the campus. When you are in the market for a second-hand book or have a book you want to sell, the YWCA Book Exchange on the fourth floor of Russ Hall is a good place to go. They charge only 15 per cent of the sale price of each book sold as a sales commission on such books. Some of the off-campus bookstores also buy and sell second-hand books, of course.

Veteran's Counseling. An office with which veterans come in contact early is the Office of Veterans' Affairs, directed by Professor Matthews. This office, which is located in Room 212, Mechanic Arts Building, handles all phases of veterans' affairs on the campus. Here veteran students are required to file their certificates of eligibility for educational benefits under the G. I. Bill, which is the first step in their enrollment. Here, too, are filed interruptions of training, reports on change of marital status, change of address, inquiries about subsistence checks, and notices of change in educational objectives. Orders for books and supplies are also issued from this office.

Kansas State Teachers College is also fortunate in having a VA Guidance Center Office on the campus, in Room 115 at the north end of the first floor in Russ Hall. The services of this office are available to all veterans in this part of Kansas, and if you aren't sure about your rights and benefits as a veteran, don't hesitate to go in and see Mr. Davison, who is in charge. Two training officers who supervise the training of disabled veterans enrolled in KSTC are a part of the center. In conjunction with the College Guidance Bureau, vocational counseling and testing is provided veterans who have problems relative to the selection of a vocation and their college course. Some of the matters on which the Center is prepared to help you are: change of schools, securing supplemental certificates of eligibility, interruption of training, obtaining delayed subsistence checks, filing disability, medical, and dental claims, insurance service, such as reinstatements, conversions, and applications for new insurance; and information concerning loan guarantees, hospitalization, and home care. A VA personal counselor who visits the campus periodically to advise veterans concerning their personal problems also works through this office.

Veterans are especially invited to avail themselves of the services of the Guidance Bureau located near the VA Guidance Center Office, also. As is pointed out elsewhere in this section of the Handbook, this agency, which is open to all students of the College, has been established to help choose a vocation. It is equipped to administer all types of aptitude and interest tests, and can be of particular assistance to disabled veterans in the selection of a vocation.

Porter Library. One of the musts on the campus here is the College Library. The best way to become acquainted with it is to go over and use it. You'll find the staff and student assistants eager to answer your questions and help you in every way possible. Students, faculty, and members of the college community (not to mention that of Pittsburg itself) may use the Library and borrow books. While the collection consists mainly of books, there are some non-book materials that are available for special occasions. A certain number of books are unusually valuable or difficult to replace. These are—except for rarely granted special permission—used in the Library. Remember, of course, that the staff members are happy to have you use the Library rooms for study of your own books as well as the Library's. Don't forget, either, that others will be studying with you and need your cooperation in keeping the rooms quiet for study purposes.

All students and library patrons are welcome to go into the stacks. (Sometimes a section or a floor is restricted for use by the general public, but with proper permission even these may be visited and examined for necessary material) There's real advantage in being able to examine books on the shelves, so learn how to use the card catalogue and locate books on your subjects. If you don't find the book you want, ask at the main loan desk to see whether it is checked out or on reserve. If it's a reserve book, ask for it downstairs. Since its use there is limited to short periods by each patron, you should be certain of getting it within a reasonable time. When you don't know how to find material on your subject or have reference questions of any sort, go to the large desk in the main reading room. The reference librarian there will be glad to work with you on your problems. Unbound magazines will be found in the periodical room.

Porter Library is open from 7:50 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and from 8:00 a.m. until noon on Saturdays. During school vacations it is open from 8:00 to 11:00 a.m. and 12:30 to 5:00 p.m. only (week days) and from 8:00 a.m. until noon Saturdays, except for New Year's, Decoration Day, July Fourth, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas.

You'll have greater success in the Library, as everywhere else, if you know what is expected of you. Here are a few hints. Books at the reserve desk may be borrowed during Library hours for a two-hour period, to be used in the building. You may check reserve books out for overnight use one hour before closing time. If you do so, you are to return the books to the reserve desk by 9:00 a.m. the following or next open morning. There are no fine systems in operation in Porter Library, and you are free to borrow or check out as many books as you feel you need. Books from the main desk can be renewed twice regularly either in person or by phone without bringing the book in. The Library's most important rule is this:

IF YOU HAVE A BOOK OVERDUE, YOU ARE NOT ENTITLED TO CHECK OUT ANOTHER UNTIL THE ONE OVERDUE IS RETURNED.

Help With Your Reading. It has been estimated that a person gets 90 per cent of his information in college from books, which means that the ability to read rapidly and well is an important factor in college success. If you feel that you need help with your reading, you will be interested in the developmental reading course offered by the Department of Education and Psychology. The course lasts for only six weeks and entails no work other than attendance at the class three times a week. It will be offered both the first and second six-weeks' periods of the fall semester. It carries no credit and no fees are charged. If you are interested, see Mr. Lamoraux in Room 215, Russ Hall.

Your Health Service. If you are to achieve the purposes for which you came to college and enjoy fully the many benefits and pleasures afforded by life on the college campus, guard your health. One of the greatest tragedies that could befall any young man or woman is a dissipated body, or mind.

A well equipped Student Health Center for your use is maintained from the health fees which all students pay. It is located just inside the front entrance to Science Hall. Here you will find a nurse on duty during school hours, and a physician at stated hours each school day. They are here for your service and counsel, but they can give neither unless you let them know your needs. Remember, you pay for it anyway.

At the first sign of illness (aches, pains, sniffles, rash, fever, and the like) or if you have any questions about health conditions, go to the Health Center, or see your family physician, if you prefer. If you are too sick to go, have someone report for you as early as possible. The Health Service cannot provide calls to your room by the school physician, or pay for the services of a private physician, or nurse. Hospital service, including board, general nursing, and room in a ward for a maximum of ten days is provided for those who need it.

Each of you is expected to have an inventory of your health, a physical examination, at the time you enter the college. Arrangements for this are a part of your enrollment, so be sure to see the school nurse or physician and get an appointment.

A FEW RULES AND REGULATIONS

Kansas State Teachers College has not set up very many rules and regulations to govern the conduct of its students, but we do have a few and some of them are listed here for your benefit:

Policies and Regulations Relating to Student Social Life

Scheduling Social Functions

1. All College social functions must be scheduled on the College Calendar, which is maintained in the office of the Dean of Administration.

2. Events will be scheduled only upon the presentation of a social permit card signed by the Dean of Administration. These cards may be procured in the office of the Dean of Administration.

All social permit cards shall be signed and in the office of the Dean of Administration 72 hours before the time for the event. Failure to comply with this regulation will subject the organization to disciplinary action.

3. Places for holding activities will be assigned in the office of the Dean of Administration.

4. All social events are to be scheduled within the city limits, except by special permission from the Social Committee.

5. No social events shall be scheduled on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday nights while school is in session, with the following exceptions:

(a) Any organization may schedule one open house per year on any night of the week.

(b) Dinner meetings that close by 8:30 o'clock may be scheduled on any night of the week.

(c) Picnics over by 8:00 p.m. may be scheduled once each semester by any organized group on any evening.

Hours

6. Since the policies governing student rooming houses specify that closing hours for women students will be 12:00 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights, all week-end parties shall close by 11:30 p.m., with the following exception:

Formal parties may be held until 12:00 p.m., and closing hours in women's houses following such events may be extended to 12:30 a.m. This applies only to those attending the formal.

7. All scheduled social affairs attended by both men and women are to be sponsored by both a man and a woman faculty member, both of whom must sign the social permit card.

8. Any sponsor or other faculty member signing a social permit card must attend that particular function, or provide a faculty member approved by the Dean of Administration as a substitute who will be present and who will sign the party permit card.

Dances

9. Student organizations may have not more than one formal party per semester. (Formal parties are understood to be those where formal dress is worn).

10. There may not be more than one Pan-Hellenic formal party and not more than one Inter-Fraternity formal party during any college year.

11. All classes are limited to one dance per year.

Expenses

12. The maximum expenditure for any informal social function other than those scheduled by class organizations is limited to $10.

13. Except by special permission of the Social Committee, the expenses per capita for formals shall not exceed $5.

14. Any expenditure of College funds must be approved in advance by the Dean of Administration and Business Manager of the College.

15. Orchestras and the expense attached to their use are subject to the approval of the Dean of Administration.

Attendance

16. Regular all-school parties may be attended by bona fide college students on presentation of activity tickets. Members of the Alumni Association will be admitted upon presentation of membership cards. Former students and guests may be admitted upon the presentation of guest cards secured from the Dean of Administration.

Benefit Parties

17. No benefit party by any organization on the campus may be given without approval of the Dean of Administration.

Colored Students

18. Separate social functions may be scheduled by the colored students under the same regulations as other organizations. Admission to social functions must be by activity ticket or guest cards issued by the Dean of Administration.

Regulations and Policies Concerning Student Rooming Houses

General Policies

1. Houses are reserved exclusively for either men or women and/or men and their wives.

2. Students are required to secure rooms in houses on the approved list in the Housing Office. Any violation of this regulation automatically relieves a student of class membership and he forfeits his grades for the semester.

3. Students desiring to change rooming places during the semester must first secure written permission from the respective deans. It is customary that two weeks' notice be given before a room is vacated.

4. Before room rent is paid it is understood that the rent is paid in advance by the calendar month, or fraction thereof. A student is under no obligation to pay rent beyond the day school is dismissed at the close of any term unless he continues to occupy the room.

5. Christmas vacation rent is not refunded unless so stated on registration card made by housemother. This regulation does not prevent the housemother and the student from making a separate agreement that is satisfactory to both parties.

6. Quiet hours shall be observed in all rooming houses after 8:00 p. m.

Policies for Women's Rooming Houses

1. Closing hours for women students throughout the year on Friday and Saturday nights shall be 12:00 p. m. For other evenings of the week during the regular school year, the closing hour is 10:00 p. m. for all freshman and 10:30 p. m. for all other women students. For the summer session 10:30 p. m. for all women students.

2. The closing hour for students after an all-school function falling on a midweek night shall be 11:00 p. m.

3. All week-end parties shall close by 11:30 p. m., and housemothers shall close the doors on such nights at 12:00 p. m.; after formal parties, 12:30 a. m. This applies only to those attending the formal party.

4. The following nights are declared 12:00 p. m. nights during the regular school year:

(1) Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights of the first week of the fall semester before classwork begins.

(2) Monday and Tuesday nights of the first week of the second semester before classwork begins.

(3) Nights following student's last final examination at the end of both regular school terms and summer sessions by special permission from the Counselor of Women.

5. Other later permissions may be granted by the Counselor of Women as follows:

(1) Seniors: 3, first semester; 4 second semester.

(2) Juniors: 3, first semester; 3 second semester.

(3) Sophomores: 1, first semester; 2, second semester.

(4) Freshmen: 1, each semester.

Late permissions on week nights shall be no later than 11:30 p. m.

6. Permission for overnight and week-end absences in case of women students must be obtained from the Counselor of Women's office before the closing of that day. Any irregularity must be reported to the Counselor of Women's office the following day.

7. Students are not to have parlor privileges during class scheduled hours.

8. Single students not living in approved rooming houses or not living with parents must have written permits from parents to be filed with the Counselor of Women when the student is to stay with friends or with other relatives.

SCHOOL SONGS AND YELLS

School Colors—Crimson and Gold

School Emblem—Gorilla

THE SCHOOL SONGS

"Crimson and Gold," which is the official "Alma Mater" song honoring the School colors, was written in 1910 by Lena Martin, a freshman, who is now editor of The Alumnian, and wife of Dr. Ralph H. Smith, a member of the College faculty.

Crimson and Gold

On the plains of southeast Kansas
'Neath an ever cloudless sky,
Far away from surging ocean
And the storm-bird's plaintive cry,
With her prairies rolling westward
Where the Redman once roamed free;
With her ensign proudly waving,
Stands our dear K. S. T. C.

CHORUS:

Let us greet the Gold and Crimson
With a strong and cordial cheer;
Let our hearts be ever loyal
To our Alma Mater dear!

Let her worthy sons and daughters
For our College proudly stand,
Shielding zealously her honor
In one brave unbroken band;
Let them hold aloft her banner
With a stout and steady arm,
Rallying her children round her
From the city, town, and farm.

The Victory Song

K. S. T. C., Fight for your college,
Come and join the fray;
Pass that ball around for a touchdown,
And we'll win this game today.
Fight! Fight! Fight, for we are no laggards,
Make them pay and pay;
And when this game is over
We'll shout the whole world over
Pittsburg, Yea!

Rah Rah

Rah! Rah! the College,
The College must win;
Lead on to victory,
Never give in.
You do yours best, boys,
We'll do the rest, boys,
March on to victory.

Yo Ho

Yo Ho, Yo Ho, Yo Ho!
Our Teachers College's
The only College;
Yo ho, yo ho, yo ho!

SCHOOL YELLS

Yea Crimson
Yea Gold
Come on Gorillas
Knock 'Em Cold!
Sissssss Boom-Gorillas!
Sissssss Boom-Gorillas!
Sissssss Boom-Gorillas!
Fight! Fight! Fight

Hit 'Em High
Hit 'Em Low
Come on Pittsburg
Let's Go!

Center, End, Tackle, Guard
Hit That Line and Hit It Hard
Hit It High, Hit It Low
Come on Gorillas
Let's Go!

The Clock Struck One!
The Clock Struck Two!
The Clock Struck Three!
And What Did We Do?
We Hollered Left
And We Hollered Right
We Hollered Pittsburg
Fight !Fight! Fight!

Is Everybody Happy?
Well, Yes!
Is Anybody Down-Hearted?
Well, No!
Are We Going to Beat—————?
Well, Yes!

(Let's give fifteen for the team)
Rah! Rah! Rah—Rah—Rah
Rah! Rah! Rah—Rah—Rah
Rah! Rah! Rah—Rah—Rah
Gorillas! (Who) Gorillas!
(Who) Gorillas!
Yea Team Fight!
Yea Team Fight!
Yea Team—Yea Team!
Fight! Fight! Fight!

Beat It Out, Beat It Out
Da, Da, Da, da-da
Beat It Out, Beat It Out
Da, Da, da-da.
Beat It Out, Beat It Out
Da, Da, da-da

STOP!

Stop Beatin' Around That—Bunch
That—Bunch, That—Bunch
Stop Beatin' Around That—Bunch
Come On and Make a Touchdown!
Beat It Out, Beat It Out.
Da, Da, Da, da-da.
Beat It Out, Beat It Out
Da, Da, Da, da-da.
Beat It Out, Beat It Out,
Da, Da, Da, da-da.
BEAT IT OUT.
